

Change Research surveyed 1,388 registered voters in Massachusetts from March 26-28. The survey was conducted online, using Change Research's Bias Correct Engine. Post-stratification was done on age, gender, education, ethnicity, region, and party. The margin of error is approximately +/- 2.6%. Incomplete responses, respondents outside of Massachusetts, and unregistered voters were filtered out.

The Work and Family Mobility Act is a piece of legislation that would enable all qualified Massachusetts drivers, regardless of immigration status, to take drivers education, pass a road test, and apply for a limited license. The limited license could only be used to drive and not for benefits, boarding a plane, or voting. Do you support passing this legislation?
